The Department of Economics invites applications for a tenure-track position in marketing beginning August 20, 2019. The position is being established to support the college's new BA degree program in business. We seek candidates who are interested in teaching at a liberal arts institution, and who can teach a variety of marketing and related courses. Ability to teaching statistics will be an added advantage. The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in delivering college-wide first-year/sophomore seminars. Although a terminal degree in marketing or related disciplines is desired by the time of appointment, advanced ABDs will be considered. Teaching load is three courses per semester.
