Salary Commensurate

Job Summary/Description

Angelo State University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor of management (MIS) in the Management and Marketing Department in the College of Business. This full-time, nine-month faculty position will start in Fall 2018.

Effective teaching, service, and publication in peer-reviewed journals are required for tenure and promotion, consistent with the policies of the College of Business and Angelo State University. The successful candidate will also have the opportunity to help the College re-define its BBA in MIS degree to meet current industry demands.

The business programs offered by the College of Business are accredited by ACBSP; however, Angelo State University is a member of AACSB and is formally engaged in the process of attaining initial business accreditation by AACSB.

Typical Duties/Job Duties

Teach graduate and undergraduate courses in management information systems, produce peer-reviewed intellectual contributions, especially journal articles, and participate in various service-related activities such as student advising, committee work, and engagement with the academic/business community.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities

Applicants should be dedicated to excellence in teaching and willing to deliver their courses in both traditional and online formats. Applicants should also be dedicated to helping ASU students succeed, particularly first-generation college students.

Applicants should possess excellent written and oral communication skills, with strong organizational skills. Collegiality and the ability to collaborate with other business faculty in both research and service are also expected.

Minimum Qualifications

PhD or DBA in Management Information Systems (or a closely related field) from an AACSB-accredited business program. ABD's will also be considered. Successful teaching experience at the college or university level. Preferred Qualifications

Record of scholarly publications in peer-reviewed journals. Industry experience is desirable.
