Employment Type Full-time

The Aquinas College School of Business provides a Catholic education in the Dominican tradition. It includes a strong liberal arts foundation based on Catholic social teaching and attracts students interested in becoming “business leaders with a soul.” Located in Music City where opportunities for internships and networking abound, Aquinas provides small class sizes in which faculty members can get to know their students and help them successfully launch their careers. The School of Business currently offers majors in Management; Marketing; and Finance with plans for additional majors as enrollment continues to grow. The Marketing major is new as of academic year 2015-2016 and this position will provide the primary faculty support for the new major. This is a 10-month appointment.

Key Responsibilities

1. Develop and teach courses, including Consumer Behavior, Digital Marketing and Marketing Strategy. The teaching load is four courses per semester.

2. Duties include serving on committees, advising students and supporting extra-curricular activities of the School of Business.

Qualifications:

1. Doctoral degree in marketing or a related field
2. Teaching and professional experiences related to marketing.
