Brandeis University - International Business School

Assistant or Associate Professor of Marketing

Description

ASSISTANT OR ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF MARKETING (TENURE TRACK)

Brandeis University invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position in the area of Quantitative Marketing (i.e., analytical, empirical and/or methodological modeling) starting in July or August 2019. Candidates should have, or be close to completing, a PhD in Marketing or a related field with strong quantitative skills.

The successful candidate will be actively engaged in research directed at top tier marketing journals, and will be an innovative scholar who is knowledgeable about issues of business practice. Creativity in course development and effectiveness in teaching will be valued highly. Although the position can be filled at any level, candidates with a few years of academic experience beyond their PhD will receive priority.

The successful candidate will teach courses in the area of Quantitative Marketing or Data Analytics in Brandeis International Business School's MBA Program, the MS in Business Analytics, and the MA in International Economics and Finance, as well as in our undergraduate Business major. The undergraduate program combines liberal-arts studies in Brandeis's College of Arts and Sciences with core business subjects at IBS. The teaching load for faculty at Brandeis IBS is comparable to that for business schools at other top research universities.
