Subject: Job posting - INSEAD Marketing Area

The marketing area at INSEAD will be interviewing applicants through Skype and at this year's AMA conference in Boston for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Marketing position on either the European (in Fontainebleau, France) or the Asian (in Singapore) campus.

We will be interviewing:

1. Entry-level candidates who are finishing their doctoral program in the next academic year, have a strong research orientation, extensive training in theory and methodology in experimental consumer research or in modeling or in adjacent disciplines, and a clear potential to publish in the top marketing or discipline-oriented journals
2. Non-entry-level candidates who have graduated in recent years and have a strong research record along with a commitment to conducting quality future research activity.

Along with showing a strong research commitment, we expect candidates to have a true commitment to quality management education at the MBA, executive, and Ph.D. levels.
