We invite applications for faculty in the Business College at the Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor level beginning in the 2018-19 academic year. We seek outstanding scholars in business management, with a particular focus on Marketing, who are passionate about undergraduate education. Candidates must have earned a Ph.D. or equivalent, or expect to do so before August 1, 2018.

You are a good fit for a Minerva faculty position if you are excited about business education and attracted by the opportunity to radically innovate in higher education. Minerva students travel the world in cohorts and take small, highly interactive seminars using the Minerva-built Active Learning Forum. This platform supports real-time student-faculty engagement while allowing seminar participants and faculty to join from around the globe. Faculty at Minerva have the flexibility to teach from any geographic location where there are good internet connections. Students live and study in many global cities, so teaching days and hours often fall outside the range of a typical business day.

The Minerva Schools at KGI are an innovative non-profit undergraduate program for the most talented and motivated students from around the world. Combining an interdisciplinary curriculum and rigorous academic standards, an accomplished faculty, cutting-edge technology, and four years of immersive global experience, Minerva delivers an exceptional liberal arts and sciences education. The Minerva Schools at KGI were established in 2013 by Keck Graduate Institute (a member of the Claremont Consortium) and the Minerva Project. For additional information about Minerva, see <https://www.minerva.kgi.edu/>.

We will begin interviewing candidates in January 2018 and encourage applicants to submit a full set of materials on or before January 5.
