Position Summary

Monmouth University is seeking applications for an Assistant Professor with specialty in the area of Integrated Marketing Communication in the Department of Marketing and International Business at the Leon Hess Business School. This position is for the 2019-2020 academic year and is tenure-track.

Candidates should demonstrate expertise in one or a combination of the following areas: Integrated Marketing Communication — including advertising, digital/social media marketing planning and strategy, social media management and evaluation, and media analytic. Also, consideration will be given to candidates who can teach some of the core marketing courses, such as principles of marketing, consumer behavior, marketing research, or marketing strategy at the undergraduate and graduate level.

Preference will be given to candidates who have practical job experience in the area of their expertise.

The candidate would be expected to: teach 9 credits per semester (with a 3 credit course load reduction for scholarship); perform and participate in services and activities for the Department, School and University; maintain disciplinary currency; and provide academic and career advisement to students.

The Leon Hess Business School is AACSB accredited, and houses approximately 1,500 students instructed by 40+ faculty members from the Departments of Accounting, Economics/Finance and Real Estate, Management and Decision Sciences, and Marketing and International Business.
