

Tenure-track position in the Department of Economics and Business, at Pompeu Fabra University, Barcelona.

Pompeu Fabra University (UPF), Barcelona, seeks to hire new faculty members to begin Fall 2019. We encourage candidates of any business and Management field, such as Judgment and Decision Making/ Organizational Economics / Accounting / Entrepreneurship / Human Resource Management / Marketing / Operations Management / Operations Research/ Organizational Behavior / Strategy to apply, including those with interdisciplinary profiles. We seek productive researchers with a strong disciplinary training who have the potential to become leading scholars in their fields of research.

The Department of Economics and Business is one of the leading research centers in Europe and has consistently ranked in the top ten departments in Europe in terms of publications and success to highly competitive international grant competitions such as ERC grants (<https://www.upf.edu/en/web/econ/erc>). The faculty at Pompeu Fabra University has a very strong research orientation and its members are regular contributors to the top journals in their fields such as the Proceedings of the Academy of Sciences of the USA (PNAS), Management Science, Organization Science, Strategic Management Journal, Psychological Review, Psychological Science, Annals of Statistics, the Journal of the American Statistical Association, among others. Please go to <https://www.upf.edu/web/econ/faculty> for more information about faculty research and publications.

Internal research funding is generous. Pompeu Fabra University has an efficient behavioral laboratory with 28 interconnected workstations and a large subject pool <http://www.upf.edu/leex/>. The university provides great flexibility to accommodate the candidates' teaching preferences.

Intellectual life is organized around a variety of weekly internal and external research seminars in the areas of Accounting, Management, Behavioral Decision Making, Microeconomics, Macroeconomics, Applied Economics, Industrial Organization, Finance, Statistics and Operations Research, and Economic and Business History.

The official language of the department is English. Classes are given in English, Spanish and Catalan.

Interested candidates should submit an electronic application packet including a current vita, representative research papers or dissertation proposal, statements of research and teaching interests, and three letters of recommendation (letters of recommendation should include the applicant's first and last name). Applications and letters of references should be submitted in electronic format here:

https://editorialexpress.com/hh/candidates/upf_management_positions_2019_a121_login

The deadline for applications in Marketing is September 15, 2018.

The deadline for applications in other fields of Management and Business is October 15, 2018. For applications in Economics and Finance, please consult <https://www.upf.edu/web/econ/job-opportunities> for instructions as to how to submit your application.

If you have questions about the position at UPF, please contact Prof. Gael Le Mens Gael.Le-Mens@upf.edu. If you have questions about the logistics of submitting your application, please contact recruiting.econ@upf.edu