Faculty Job Openings (2014)

发布日期：2013-12-16

The School of Business at Renmin University of China (also known as Renmin Business School or RBS) is one of the leading business schools in China (<http://www.rbs.org.cn>). RBS prides itself on the longest history of management education in China, which can be traced to the 1950s, along with a strong alumni basis and close ties to the business community. RBS strives to provide a supportive research environment, research funding and modern facilities in its newly constructed Mingde Business Building. Salaries and benefits offered are competitive and commensurate with the applicant's qualifications.

RBS seeks candidates with advanced academic credentials earned overseas for all rankings in the following subject areas:

Strategic Management, Supply Chain Management, Innovative Management, Business Strategy and Culture, Organization Management, Asset Pricing, Corporate Finance, Real Estate Finance, Customer Behavior, Marketing Model, Auditing, Accounting, Technological Economics and Management, Information Systems, Operation Management, International Economics, International Business and Industrial Economics

Candidates applying for assistant professor positions are expected to have a Ph.D. in relevant fields conferred by the world's top 50 educational institutions with demonstrated research potential. Candidates applying for senior rankings are required to have a track record of publications in top-tier journals of management in addition, plus exceptional teaching skills.

RBS also welcomes applicants with a doctorate degree earned from a "Project 985" university for senior rankings in the above mentioned subject areas. Applicants are required to have a track record of publications in top-tier journals of management and high level teaching experience.

Applications should be submitted electronically to Ms. Zhou Pei, including cover letter, curriculum vitae, relevant publications or working papers, any available teaching evaluations, three recommendation letters and availability for interviews.
