

Assistant, Associate or Full Professor, Texas A&M University

The Department of Marketing in the Mays Business School, Texas A&M University, invites applications from candidates for three tenure-track positions at the assistant, associate or full professor rank with all areas of expertise being considered. Our preference is to hire at the assistant professor rank to start in Fall of 2020.

While all areas of research and teaching focus will be considered, we are particularly interested in candidates who can support the Department's historical strengths in marketing strategy, services and retailing. Candidates must possess an earned PhD at the time of appointment (or commencement of duties). All candidates are expected to be committed to teaching and research of the highest quality. In addition to publishing to leading marketing journals, the successful candidates will be expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, participate in all aspects of the department's activities; and serve the profession.

The Mays Business School and our department offer an excellent research environment, with a collegial culture, productive faculty colleagues, access to key databases, a state-of-the-art behavioral research lab, a teaching load of three courses per year, which continues after tenure for highly productive faculty, and relationships with world-class research faculty in related disciplines. Housed within the Department of Marketing is the internationally recognized Center for Retailing Studies (CRS) that serves as a bridge between the academic and retailing communities. The Department also is a major player in sales education and research via the Reynolds & Reynolds Sales Leadership Institute. For more information about Texas A&M University, the Mays Business School, and our department, please visit our website: <http://www.mays.tamu.edu>.

All application materials should be submitted in PDF format (a single file is strongly preferred) should be submitted by email to marketingsearch@mays.tamu.edu. Please include the following: (1) a cover letter; (2) CV that includes educational background, research/publication record, indicators of teaching activity/effectiveness, and work and other experience; (3) research and teaching statements; and (4) three letters of recommendation. Questions regarding the position should be directed to Spring Basey at sbasey@mays.tamu.edu.

Review of the application materials will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Interviews with selected candidates will be conducted via digital media in late July and/or early August.

Texas A&M University is committed to enriching the learning and working environment for all visitors, students, faculty, and staff by promoting a culture that embraces inclusion, diversity, equity, and accountability. Diverse perspectives, talents, and identities are vital to accomplishing our mission and living our core values.

Texas A&M University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.