Wilkes University invites applicants for two positions as a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Marketing in the Department of the Marketing, Entrepreneurship, Leadership, Sports Management and Hospitality Leadership (MELSH) at the Jay S. Sidhu School of Business & Leadership.

The successful candidate for this position will teach courses in the area of marketing, and other business courses as needed, at both the undergraduate and graduate levels; engage in scholarly activity; and offer service to the school, university, and communities. In addition, the faculty member will be responsible for mentoring undergraduate students with an interest in Marketing, and supervising/conducting related field research. The candidate should demonstrate authentic leadership and emotional intelligence; a strong understanding of learning and motivation; skills in the assessment, advising, and mentoring of learners; and the ability to deal effectively with individual differences in ability, personality, and interests.

The Sidhu School is accredited by ACBSP and is a candidate for AACSB accreditation. Faculty members at the Sidhu School carry a four-course load per semester, with research and service expectations. The ideal candidate will have prior experience teaching at the college level and a demonstrated commitment to scholarly activity. A doctorate degree in Marketing or a related field is required, and a doctoral degree from an AACSB institution is preferred for this position. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.
